

commend the person who posted below. I feel it should be known that I am a former supervisor for most of my career (lets say i left in 1998, ended up in a different company, and most of the years I have been in my current company i have been a contractor in the company for which I became a supervisor). I'm not here to jump on anyone for doing it, I have done it too. It is the best way to do it, and it has been proven to be the best and safest way to do it. I don't think you would want a guy that has been on the inside running your company. (Although, that might be the way to go).. Regarding the decision to close this, I would like to say, I don't think its a huge problem. If you are around 750k a year, and only make 2k a month, you may be able to do it but just think about it. If you were getting 3000, 4k, 6k, 8k just think about the math. I hope you do the math, don't be like me. If you do then you will be telling yourself why you should just work 2k a month and not get any money. Like I said, i don't think its a big problem, and I would like you guys to think about that, that is not what I am trying to
